

The Whats, Whys, Hows, and Whos of Community Theater

What does it take to put on a show in a community theater? Who decides what shows to produce? How are the actors chosen? What about the scenery, costumes, publicity, and so on?

With her extensive background in dance and theater, both on and off stage, CAT MILONE knows it all. And as Managing Director of ActorsNET of Bucks County, she gets to put her experience to work in every production at the local theater in Morrisville.

Join us to learn about the special strengths, weaknesses, and challenges of nonprofit community theater, with its all-volunteer structure. Find out about the different departments and how they work together to take a show from selection to production.

Equally important, learn why community theaters are so important, and how people can get involved by auditioning, volunteering, patronizing, and supporting their local theaters.
